City Manager's Departure Catches City by Surprise

by Virginia Beauchamp

"We're sorry to see him go," said Mayor Antoinette Bram, when questioned about the city's response to the unexpected news that City Manager Daniel Hobbs will be leaving Greenbelt for a new position in Farmington Hills, Michigan. "But we understand that this was an offer he could not refuse." Noting that Hobbs had come to Greenbelt from a larger city (Killeen, Texas), she continued, "We were fortunate to have him with us for five years."

Generally, city managers, who are by definition at the top of the administrative hierarchy within any particular city, can only move up by going on to larger, and more challenging, municipalities. Farmington Hills, a city of 80,000 heading toward 90,000, should provide a broader scope for a manager's skills than can Greenbelt.

Bram learned about Hobbs' decision informally at the annual Ocean City convention of the Maryland Municipal League when he called her out of a meeting to confer with her privately. He was anxious that she learn of this new circumstance first from himself, since he was aware that the press in Michigan had already announced his appointment. (There the entire search procedure, including the interviews with candidates, had been conducted in the open with full press coverage.)

The whole process had taken a very short time, Bram noted. Hobbs had been approached only a few weeks before by a search team. Following interviews in Michigan, he had received an offer on Tuesday, June 26. As of June 29 Bram had yet to receive his resignation in writing. He is expected to assume his new position on August 5.

Bram especially commended Hobbs for "the good job he has done here in the city. He was good with the budget - particularly during the rough times here" with the recent state and county budget problems.

Where Do We Go from Here?

In the immediate future Deputy City Manager Michael McLaughlin was appointed by council to take over as Acting City Manager, a position he held previously when former manager James Giese retired. Council took the action at a special meeting Tuesday night. Council must next consider how to proceed in filling the permanent post. "We can conduct a search," Bram said. "Or we can carry out an in-house search only. Or we can simply make an appointment."

Because of scheduled surgery for councilmember Ed Putens, the next regularly scheduled city council meeting will not take place until July 29.

Commending McLaughlin for "the fantastic job" he had done in overseeing the renovation of Center School into the present vibrant Community Center that it has become, Bram noted that that work entailed challenging high finance, engineering and architectural components. McLaughlin is also the city treasurer.

Comments by Hobbs

"Leaving Greenbelt was not something on my agenda," Hobbs said. "Greenbelt is a great community with high visibility,"

he added. "I enjoyed my time here - it's a great place to practice city management." Hobbs particularly commended the high quality of the city staff and city council. "My experiences in Greenbelt gave me a great story to tell," he said, referring to the interview experience.

This process took about six weeks altogether, he said, and council was kept apprised at every stage. When the matter was settled, he said, he was given "a very generous offer."

Farmington Hills is a full-service municipality about 17 miles northwest of Detroit. It has its own fire department and police force. It has six elected councilmembers and an elected mayor. Since March the city clerk had been serving as acting city manager.

Janet Reno Guest Speaker At Roosevelt Graduation

by Mary Moien

The Eleanor Roosevelt High School class of 1996 has graduated. On June 4, a sea of nearly 600 young men and women floated into the US Air Arena in caps and gowns of white and light blue. The sound of "Pomp and Circumstance," performed by the ERHS Symphony Orchestra, was heard as row after row filled with graduates. The Honorable Janet Reno, Attorney General of the United States, was the guest speaker. It took over an hour for the graduates to collect their diplomas.

In his greeting, Robert Slade, Deputy Superintendent of Schools, told the students to turn around and tell the people in the audience "you love them and thank them, for these parents, relatives, and friends have had much to do with your success in school."

Janet Reno

Attorney General Reno, addressing the graduates, commented that she had just attended her own 40th high school reunion and had seen some of the teachers who had helped to shape her life. She encouraged the graduates to reach out and touch others and to help them along the way. Even when problems seem large, she said, each of us can make a difference. She asked the students to think of a person who has made a difference in their lives and to emulate them.

Reno described her childhood in poverty and how her mother built a house for her family with her own hands. That house has become a symbol to Reno that a person can do more than they think they can. The house even held up during hurricane Andrew, she noted, when so many other homes were destroyed. In encouraging students who say they have no money for college, Reno related how she and her siblings worked their way through college. When she decided to go to law school, people discouraged her because she was a woman. When she graduated, no one wanted to hire her. But she has managed to achieve in spite of these difficulties.

Although Reno has no children, she indicated that when the graduates become parents, they should put their family first. Raising children is the single most difficult task you will undertake, she said. Lastly, she reminded the graduates to take time to laugh and to laugh at themselves also.

Other Speakers

This year, a member of the ERHS alumni was invited to address the graduates. Andy Blocker, once a student at ERHS, is now Special Assistant to the President for Legislative Affairs. He began his presentation by commenting that Reno, like Eleanor Roosevelt, is an inspiration, not just to women, but to all students. He stated, "If I can work in the White House, each of you can do whatever you want." He praised his mother and his father for helping him to be successful in life.

Referring to the many students who may not have a father in the house to participate in their lives, he stated that although he had a great father, his father was brought up in a fatherless home. By working hard, he became a great father and role model to Blocker. So students should not use a less-than-perfect family life to excuse themselves from doing their best.

Dr. Gerald Boarman

Dr. Gerald Boarman, Chief Educational Administrator for this area, spoke briefly to the students. He reminded them that they create their own opportunities. Some have created opportunities already; others have not. However, it is not too late to start. He stated that with choices come responsibility. "Try to be daring in life—daring in a positive sense," he said. Some may later decide to go back to school or to move in a different career direction. Take the dare and have confidence in yourself. Feel good about yourself. He quoted Eleanor Roosevelt: "Nobody can make you feel inferior without your consent."

He told the students that they should be proud that this is the only school in the country named after Eleanor Roosevelt. Boarman also told the students that they should each have a personal philosophy on life. His own, he said, is "Being average is just as close to the bottom as to the top," and he wanted to be at the top.

Twins Anastasiya and Nadezhda Titarchuk were the valedictorians. Andrea Neuendorffer was the salutatorian. The twins, speaking one after the other, told the students to

by Jim Smith

At their June 10 regular meeting, the City Council moved to adopt changes to the public parking lots by Roosevelt Center and the Community Center. In a unanimous vote, Council accepted all 24 changes/actions that were recommended by city staff as a result of two public meetings where several groups were invited to participate including merchants from Roosevelt Center, representatives from the Library, officials from the Recreation Department and tenants of the Community Center.

A change approved for the Roosevelt Center North lot by the Post Office will free up nine spaces for unrestricted use after 8 p.m. These spaces currently have a one-half hour time restriction around the clock. The change will help the patrons of the Greenbelt Arts Center who could make use of those spaces after the Post Office closes.

Pavement markings account for a bulk of the individual actions called for in the staff memo from Celia Wilson, Director of Planning. The markings will better clarify crosswalks, compact spaces, stops, and direction of travel throughout the lots. Other changes that affect the pattern of parking are: a one-half foot widening of 19 spaces on the west side of the NationsBank lot; a relocation of four handicapped spaces to provide better access to ramps behind the Library; and the creation of 10 minute passenger loading zones by the child care and adult day care areas of the Community Center.

Council entertained a motion by Councilmember Ed Putens to lengthen to one hour the one-half hour time restriction on spaces on Centerway. Ac-

USDA at BARC

We mourn the loss of another section of the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center to another federal facility. We feel that those who have supported building the 45 acre USDA headquarters complex here have erred. It seems doubtful that building this facility will prevent future losses of BARC land to other public agencies or private ownership, as Senator Paul Sarbanes and Congressman Steny Hoyer have suggested. However, this is not the time for recriminations and blame. Rather, it is time to make the best out of what will be. Now that a final decision by USDA has been made and construction work begun, the city must look to minimizing the impact of this facility upon the community and ensuring the preservation of BARC as a low-density agricultural research institution.

We urge the Greenbelt City Council to move beyond their anger and work in a positive way to seek the support of its Congressman and Senators and elected state and county officials to achieve three important objectives:

1. Hold the USDA and its road builders feet to the fire in preserving and minimizing the impact of roadwork upon adjacent wetlands and keep the pressure on the U.S. Corps of Engineers and the Maryland Department of the Environment to apply the same degree of rigid enforcement to this project as those agencies applied to the city in its development of Greenbrook lake.

2. Ensure that adequate and safe road facilities are built for the benefit of USDA, BARC, Greenbelt and area residents. In particular, we are concerned that access improvements are not planned for US 1, that Sunnyside Avenue will not be widened to four lanes for its entire length and that the dangerous at-grade crossing of the CSX tracks will not be eliminated.

3. Protect BARC from future encroachment by federal and private interests. We would like to see the BARC Master Plan designate a portion of the research center next to Greenbelt as a part of Greenbelt's historic green belt, restricted for use to farming, agricultural research, recreation, and open space. We also believe that skillful legislators, if asked, could get such a green belt designated by an act of Congress.

USDA Road Analysis Correction & Update

by James Giese and Elaine Skolnik

Last week's article, "Existing Problems Not Solved by USDA Road Improvements," was incorrect as to the improvements to be undertaken on Sunnyside Avenue at Edmonston Road. Instead of retaining the existing three lanes, the road, east of the two-lane bridge over Indian Creek, will be widened to four lanes. There will be two right turn lanes and a left turn lane onto Edmonston and a single westbound lane on Sunnyside. The widening of Sunnyside at this location will encroach upon adjacent wetlands.

According to Michael Sazonov, project manager for the USDA complex, there will be about 900 parking spaces at the USDA complex to serve the estimated 1,500 employees and building visitors. Such a limited number of spaces makes essential the implementation of a viable traffic management plan. While the details of the plan are not yet available, the elements will include providing a shuttle bus to Metro, ride-sharing, higher use of public transportation, and telecommuting. Without a successful plan, parking at the complex could be very inadequate.

Residents and workers in the area have told the News Review that Sunnyside Avenue can become bottled up by CSX freight trains. Reportedly several very long coal trains each day, as well as other freight trains, close the road for long intervals. MARC also uses these tracks for commuter trains. The News Review has been told that long freight trains can cause traffic on Sunnyside to back up all the way to US 1.

Peace and Justice Caucus Will Meet

The Prince George's Peace and Justice Caucus will meet on Monday, July 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Berwyn Presbyterian Church. The church is located on Greenbelt Road and 63rd Avenue with parking behind the church off 63rd Avenue. Plans for a public forum in September on TRIM, cosponsored with the Prince George's Gray Panthers, and a later forum dealing with personal violence are two items to be considered. Also on the agenda are plans for Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. Other items brought up at the meeting will be considered.

Everyone is welcome. For additional information call Bertram Donn, 301-474-1353.

PARKING

According to Putens, it is the belief of at least one of the merchants in Roosevelt Center that the store loses customers due to the short time limit. The merchants are not in agreement on this issue however. According to Wilson's memo, "There was no unanimity among the merchants (during the public meetings) as to what those Centerway restrictions should be." Council voted down Putens' motion and adopted a motion 4-1 for the spaces to remain as marked.

Council Starts BARC Response

Council at a Special Meeting on July 2, discussed the steps it can take in response to the approval of the USDA headquarters complex on Sunnyside Road. The city will seek to form a coalition of interested groups, mainly focusing on the environmental impact. In addition, U.S. Department of Agriculture officials will be asked to provide an update on the project at the July 29 regular council meeting. More detailed information on this discussion will be provided in the next issue of the Greenbelt News Review.

The meeting was called originally for the purpose of accepting City Manager Dan Hobbs resignation and appointing Michael P. McLaughlin as Interim City Manager.

Volunteers Needed

The American Cancer Society is desperately seeking volunteers to respond to public inquiries for cancer-related information. A good telephone manner and a commitment to caller satisfaction is needed. Training is provided. For more information, call the Public Relations department at 202-483-2600 x151.

Letters to the Editor

Review Unfair

This letter is in response to Nick Mydra's article "Sounds" from the June 20 issue.

I must begin by clarifying a few things associated with the review. The most unfortunate aspect of Mydra's article (and the photo that was printed in the Greenbelt News Review proves this) is that he showed up after the show was over. Mydra strolled into the New Deal Cafe with a small entourage of friends after watching "A Canticle for Leibowitz" at the Greenbelt Arts Center. At that point, Fractal Terradactyl had finished a two-hour set and the band was packing up for the night. After some persuasion from these late night stragglers, the band collectively agreed to provide another round of live music, but we expressed that it would be a bare bones selection as most of our gear was already loaded into our respective vehicles. Given this fact, Mydra's review is like trying to describe a long train by looking at the back of the caboose.

In his article, Mydra used a quote from the Fractal Terradactyl press release from the June 13 edition of the Greenbelt News Review to describe the music. He expressed some confusion about the role of the hammer dulcimer in relation to polyrhythmic experimental adventurism as he stated: "But how it fits in with African rhythm I'm just not sure." The answer to Mydra's query was given in the paragraph that stated "Fractal Terradactyl is a collaborative trio dedicated to expanding the boundaries of music...". If Mydra had kept this in mind when he quoted what style of music the band plays, rather than how the band plays that style, then he would have understood the role of the hammer dulcimer within the context of Fractal Terradactyl.

GIVES Gives

It's great to live in Greenbelt and be a member of GIVES!

What to do when I needed to have some yard work done. Why, call GIVES, of course. Many members have signed up to do just that and earn GIVES credits for their future use.

The gentleman who responded did an especially nice job. He was knowledgeable, efficient and cheerful. More was accomplished than I expected and I couldn't be more pleased.

Don't miss out. Join GIVES to help and be helped. Call 301-507-6580.

Betty Deitch

Mydra also mentioned "but this eclectic maze means you don't get the traditional song with a beginning, middle, and end." I would submit for your consideration, Nick, that if that's what you want to see, you should try showing up at the beginning of the show and stay through the middle, rather than showing up at the end. Otherwise, you miss the show and therefore miss what you were looking to see and hear. This is not offset by recollecting an earlier performance by the band, since our other visit to the New Deal Cafe was with different players. That would be like comparing apples to oranges.

While I appreciate the effort that Mydra spent writing his review, I am disappointed that it did not convey the same sentiments that he expressed to me in person when I saw him in the New Deal Cafe the following week. To quote Mydra, the Fractal Terradactyl performance was "fantastic".

Swim Team News

by Jill Lau & Christine Maher

The Greenbelt Swim Team suffered its first defeat of the season with a competitive meet against the Hawthorne Country Club this past Saturday, June 29. The team traveled to Hawthorne's pool in La Plata where the meet was held. The final score was Greenbelt, 266.5; Hawthorne, 267.5. The two teams were neck and neck throughout the entire meet, with only a mere point separating the final score. The Greenbelt Swim Team is looking forward to competing with Hawthorne Country Club again in the Division Championships at the end of the season with hopes of a triumph.

All of the swimmers worked very hard and swam their best on Saturday. The triple winner this weekend was Jill Lau with 15 points. High point winners were Kate Hilton with 14 points, and Casey Connor and David Hardy each with 13 points. Halley Aelion got 12 points, and Sonya Haines, Amanda Baldauf and Aruna Inversin all got 11 points. Also high point winners were William Kim and Michelle Stickles with 10 points each. Jill Lau broke a pool record at Hawthorne Country Club for 8 & under girls 25m freestyle with a time of 18.25 seconds. The record had been standing since 1988.

Despite the rainy and dreary weather, the Greenbelt Swim Team held a small Mini-Meet for all of the 8 & Unders on Sunday, June 30. Many of the swimmers got to swim new events and performed very well. Also a special thanks to the parents who helped to run both of the meets this weekend...you guys are great!

Next Saturday on July 6, the Greenbelt Swim team will be hosting its first home meet of the season against Belair Swim & Racquet beginning at 8:30 a.m. Meets are open to spectators and everyone is more than welcome to come and cheer us on.

Reiki Healing Circles Will Continue Monthly

By popular demand, Reiki (pronounced ray-kee) Healing Circles will continue on a monthly basis at the Greenbelt Community Center, usually on the second Friday of the month. Everyone is invited to attend the next meeting on Friday, July 12, 7:30 - 9 p.m. A small, voluntary donation will be accepted.

The first Healing Circle on June 14 attracted some 35 people. Ethel Porter, Reiki Master from the Reiki Center in Annapolis, presented a brief description of Reiki, a Japanese word meaning "Universal Life Energy," and the history of the Reiki method of natural healing. Reiki Masters Ginger Dunn of Greenbelt and Katherine Klemstine from Annapolis assisted in providing opportunities to experience the Reiki energy through the circle and helped to facilitate some guided meditations. Throughout the evening participants were invited to put the names of people and places in the world into the center of the circle so that the Reiki healing energy could be directed toward them.

Following the circle, those in attendance unanimously expressed a desire to have the circles continue in Greenbelt. One participant mentioned that she found the program both relaxing and energizing after a long, stressful week. Others said that it was just what they needed in these troublesome times and that they were happy to meet other people on similar spiritual journeys. One person who attended circles at other locations felt that there was a cumulative effect in going to these circles: that with each one he was able to go a little deeper.

Plans are underway to offer a Greenbelt "Reiki Clinic" in September at which people can drop in to experience the Reiki energy more directly. Watch for further announcements.

For further information, call Tom Barlett at 301-345-0410.

Arts Center Presents Fundraiser Saturday

by Konrad Herling

The Greenbelt Arts Center is presenting a rare punk rock concert this Saturday, July 6, 8 p.m. at the Arts Center. The event features three groups, Blawnox, Decimate and Box 8. It is a fundraiser for The 21 House, a community located in Springfield, Virginia, dedicated to caring and housing battered women and children.

Blawnox consists of five young musicians headed by Dustin Swanson, a former Eleanor Roosevelt High School student now residing in Alexandria. The music frequently changes tempo, and is "thrashy"; the event's producer is Bo Swanson. Decimate has been performing for nearly a year and features Robbi, whose guitar solos are well known throughout the teen population in College Park. Finally, Box 8 consists of five older performers mostly in their mid to late 20's. Just the same, this group also has a "hard bite" and will appeal to the younger set.

Balladeer to Sing At New Deal Cafe

Blair Pettyjohn, contemporary singer/songwriter, will perform at the New Deal Cafe on Saturday night, July 6.

Singing from traditional folk to upbeat folk-rock, Blair complements his vocals with versatile guitar playing that includes various fingerpicking styles, percussive techniques and rhythmic strumming patterns.

by Dolores Capotosto

The next meeting of the Golden Age Club will be on Wednesday, July 10, in the Community Center's multi-purpose room. All meetings are scheduled from 11 a.m.-noon. The speaker will be Dean Prager who will discuss "Long Term Nursing Care Planning."

We hope all interested members have signed up for the Hanover, PA, trip as it sounds like it will be a popular one with lunch and dinner included. (The temperature is usually cooler up there.) Don't forget to sign up for other trips. The August one is a cruise on the schooner "Nighthawk." See the travel committee; they've been doing an excellent job.

This reporter will be out of town until July 16. When I said that I wanted to go to San Diego this week, Joe Wilkinson said, "Well, you'd better start walking." Wise Guy!

Enjoy the Fourth of July weekend!

Robert Siehl

Robert Siehl, 81, 10 Court Plateau Place died on June 27 at the Veterans Memorial Hospital in Washington, D.C.

Mr. Siehl was born January 23, 1915 in Cleveland, Ohio. As a young boy, he lived in South Dakota where his parents moved because their doctor had told them their son, who had TB, would not survive if this move were not made.

They later moved to Washington, D.C., where he met Helen L. Andrews. They married August 28, 1940 and started their family.

Mr. Siehl went into the U.S. Marine Corps in 1941 and was honorably discharged in 1944.

In 1948, needing more space, they found Greenbelt, which has been home ever since.

Mr. Siehl worked for many years for Singer Sewing Machine Co., the Electrolux Co. and Commercial Plastics.

His interests were fishing, bowling and family picnics at the lake. As a member of the American Legion, he spent many Friday nights with kids and friends at the Greenbelt American Legion Hall.

His wife of 50 years preceded him in death in 1990. He is survived by eight children: Betty Bento of Fortuna, CA; Patty Lauer, Art (Butch)

Siehl, Kathy Don Bullian and Martha Hall, all residing in the Greenbelt, Berwyn and Bowie area; Donald Siehl of Dallas, TX, and Andy Siehl of Chuluata, FL; 22 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Interment was held July 1 at Cheltenham, MD, with full military honors.

Although Mr. Siehl did not have cancer, his wish was that any donations be made to the American Cancer Society in the name of Helen L. Siehl or, because of their love of animals, to the Prince George's Humane Society.

Andrew K. Keller

Andrew K. Keller, age 74, formerly of Greenbelt died on June 30 in Surfside Beach, SC. A 1944 graduate of West Point, Mr. Keller will be buried at Arlington National Cemetery on July 11 at 3 p.m. He is survived by his wife Ann, six sons, four daughters, a sister and 19 grandchildren. Services were held in Garden City Beach, SC on July 3.

Governor Glendening Visits Local School

Governor Parris Glendening was the key-note speaker at Holy Redeemer School's annual Business Appreciation Breakfast held on May 24. This school is located on Berwyn Road in College Park. The theme of the breakfast, hosted by the school's Development Committee, was "Partners In Excellence." Representatives of approximately 100 local businesses that support Holy Redeemer School were in attendance. The main focus of the meeting was to express gratitude and to encourage businesses to continue their support in various ways. The Governor pointed out to the businesses that next to parental participation, the second most important source of involvement in schools is that of the business community. One of the school's objectives is to pair each grade with a business and have that business follow the class until graduation.

After breakfast, the Governor went outside to the school yard where he received an enthusiastic greeting from the entire student body of 273 students, including Greenbelters Marc Barrera, Gabrielle Beal Ingrid and Maria Berberry, Nick Blanda, Luke and Peter Fleri, John and Kelly Kyles, Stephanie Masser and Michelle Wines. The Governor told the students that they will one day be assets to the business community as well as future business leaders. Many of the school's graduates are academic achievers who go on to high school and college. With the continued, generous support from local businesses, Holy Redeemer School will be better able to provide its students with academic excellence.

ACE Is Studying Greenbelters' Schools

by Kerana Todorov

On June 25, the Advisory Committee on Education (ACE) discussed its ongoing project, a review of the perception of the schools that Greenbelt students attend. ACE members also discussed their participation in the Labor Day parade.

Last Spring, City council assigned the committee the task of finding out what is special and unique about the schools Greenbelt children attend. Chairwoman Leta M. Mach said ACE hoped to have the report ready for council to review by the end of the summer.

During the meeting the five committee members present brainstormed to identify what to ask school officials. A list of questions has since been drawn up. They include: "What is special, different, or unique about your school?" "How ready to learn are your children when they enter your school?" "How many counselors does your school have?" "How many and what kind of field trips do you have for your students?"

ACE members also discussed their plans for the Labor Day parade. The committee plans to march and to have a booth. At the booth, the public should find city calendars and a map of the local schools. The map will have information on each school. People will also be able to watch the video of the ACE Educator's Award and ACE student award ceremonies.

ACE's next meeting will be held on July 23 at 7 p.m.

Melissa Ager, 12 (far right) and Angela Ahnadi, 11 (next from right) received "Make the Right Call" awards presented to them by U.S. Fire Administrator Carrye Brown during National Emergency Medical Services week ceremonies on the Mall May 21. Recognized for their lifesaving CPR efforts, Angela and Melissa learned the technique April 20 at an annual CPR training program held at Eleanor Roosevelt High School on Maryland Day. Later the same day the girls used their training to prolong the life of a 73 year old family friend who collapsed with a heart attack, until emergency medical help arrived. Information about other CPR training opportunities is available by calling the CPR Hot Line at 301-864-LIVE. Although the ERHS program is offered once a year, CPR training is on-going. A special pediatric CPR program will be offered at U.S. Air Arena in September.

The Greenbelt Arts Center is presenting a rare punk rock concert this Saturday, July 6, 8 p.m. at the Arts Center. The event features three groups, Blawnox, Decimate and Box 8. It is a fundraiser for The 21 House, a community located in Springfield, Virginia, dedicated to caring and housing battered women and children.

Blawnox consists of five young musicians headed by Dustin Swanson, a former Eleanor Roosevelt High School student now residing in Alexandria. The music frequently changes tempo, and is "thrashy"; the event's producer is Bo Swanson. Decimate has been performing for nearly a year and features Robbi, whose guitar solos are well known throughout the teen population in College Park. Finally, Box 8 consists of five older performers mostly in their mid to late 20's. Just the same, this group also has a "hard bite" and will appeal to the younger set.

A man, in the front entrance to his apartment building in the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terrace, noticed two men running towards him with their shirts pulled over their heads. One of the men, who was armed with a semi-automatic handgun, ordered the man to the ground and demanded his wallet. After the man placed his wallet on the ground, one of the suspects asked if there was any money in his apartment. The suspect picked up the wallet and struck the man in the head with the handgun. Both suspects, described as black men in their 20's, 5'8", slim builds and wearing black t-shirts, fled on foot towards Cherrywood Terrace. The victim's injury was not serious. The incident occurred in the early hours of Thursday morning, June 27.

A 25 year old resident man was arrested on a charge of common law battery on Wednesday evening, June 26. The arrest resulted from officers responding to a report of a violent domestic dispute in the 5800 block of Cherrywood Terrace. Two men are sought in connection with a strongarm robbery which occurred on the Spellman Overpass bridge on Saturday afternoon, June 22. The suspects are described as: 1) a black man, 28 to 30 years old, deep voice, slender arm, black hair, wearing a baseball cap; and 2) a black man, 20 to 30 years old, 5'3", wearing a baseball cap and sunglasses.

Two children, ages 8 and 13, riding their bicycles in the 9100 block of Springhill Lane on Wednesday afternoon, June 26, were approached by two youths. When the youths attempted to steal the bicycles from the children by pushing them off, the children rode away. One of the children was caught by the youths and was pushed off the bicycle. The bicycle was recovered when the youths learned the other child had contacted the Police. Officers located the youths at the Springhill Lake Shopping Center. One youth, a 13 year old nonresident male, was arrested on a charge of common law robbery. The other youth, a 14 year old resident male, was arrested on charges of common law robbery and theft. Both youths were released into the custody of guardians pending juvenile court action.
